

Mass hysteria

And when the rabble isn't storming county buildings with their stick-placard-flag-weapon-thingies, they are circulating their degenerate propaganda everywhere.

"Similarly, printed material has been distributed within County facilities that advocate particular viewpoints," the report continues. "But not necessarily those of the Board of Supervisors, the County Executive or the County of Sacramento."

Really? Particular viewpoints advocated freely in public buildings? Why not just give Osama the key to Oval Office now?

The new law was on the board of supervisors "consent calendar" for Tuesday, July 29—mixed in with a half-dozen other-items that county staff wanted the board to pass without discussion. It's sort of a "sign here, boss" kind of deal.

But Sacramento attorney and free-speech-lovin' troublemaker Jeff Kravitz spotted the new ordinance and fired off a letter to board members Monday night, calling the new law "draconian and unconstitutional."

Supervisor Roger Dickinson agreed, and led the board in nixing the new law, saying, "It sounds like we have a solution crying out for a problem."

Bites disagrees. It sounds like we have problem, crying out for some bureaucratic heads on sticks.
